WACUHO Conference 2007

The annual WACUHO conference is on its way, and this year, it's all about location! Swaying palm trees, crystal clear pools and luxury golf courses are only a few of the delights that await you in this desert oasis. But of course, in true WACUHO style, there's more to this conference than just a visit to the spa—it's about balance, growth and reconnection. We're taking R&R to the next level, and we need your to help. We strongly encourage everyone to consider presenting a session during the conference. Our theme this year is "R&R—the WACUHO Way," and with that in mind we're looking to assemble an interactive, varied and holistic conference program schedule that will appeal to our diverse WACUHO members.

We're accepting program submissions on a variety of topics, designed to help all levels of housing professionals feel rejuvenated and rediscover their passion for the field. Program submissions will be due February 9, 2007.

WACUHO Mission Statement

WACUHO's mission is to bring college and university staff members who have responsibility covering any of the various aspects of student residence, food service, developmental programming, administration, conference services, facilities, and related operations into meaningful association. In addition, WACUHO promotes quality residential living experiences at colleges, universities, and other post secondary institutions by providing educational programs, services, research, and professional development experiences for its members.

WACUHO Affirmative Action Statement

WACUHO recognizes the benefits that are derived from the inclusion of diversity in the Association. Members make significant contributions from all areas of higher education and at every level of responsibility. The quality of perspective and experience shared by our members, inclusive of ethnicity, age, gender, religious preference, sexual orientation or differing abilities, adds a dynamic which enriches the character of the Association. WACUHO encourages all to actively participate in its programs, events and activities.
